

Infant & Toddler Care

CCED231

Course Outcomes:

To demonstrate infant/toddler teaching strategies in order to strengthen the overall development of the child.

To examine procedures in observing and recording infant/toddler activity in order to determine how to best meet the needs of the child.

To identify experiences that affect the emotional well being of the young child in order to enhance positive self esteem.

To identify the O.C.C.S. regulations that influence the set-up and running of an infant/toddler center in order to provide a quality program.

To recognize and be able to respond to separation anxiety in order to assist the parent and child to cope with this difficult process.

To discuss the process of attachment in order to assist the child in developing trusting relationships with parents and caregivers.