Her work concerns itself with the dynamic of order and chaos...
and the pursuit of balance.

Eli is an illustrator and local artist who exhibits regularly. She maintains a studio, "The Artful Hand", in Stoughton, and is currently teaching a painting class for beginners at Duxbury's Ellison Center or the Arts. Her 4 day Alla Prima Workshop is offered in Bermuda during the winter months.
